HafenCity is a project of the City of Hamburg with the aim of creating a new town district on a large deserted portion of the port. Tetrapak offers a platform for approximately 14 Baltic artists, who are to contribute comments on topics such as urbanism, public imagination or model making against the backdrop of HafenCity. In this process, the artists make use of experience they have accumulated with similar projects in their native towns. Activities: Excursions, communal construction of a HafenCity model, topical movie soirees (bar provided), public lectures featuring guests, bus tours through the area of the HafenCity, archive, public presentation of the invited artists.
